

PATH TO PEACE A POSSIBLE RESULT OF BIG DEBACLE

League of Nations Agent in Rebuilding Austria Has Hopeful View

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
VIENNA.—A candle has been lighted in Austria for the salvation of Europe. That candle may yet show Europe the way to peace.

In this way the commissioner general of the League of Nations here, Dr. R. Zimmerman, former burgomaster of Rotterdam, Holland, spoke of the international cooperation between nations—not individuals—for the reconstruction of practically down-and-out Austria.

Dr. Zimmerman is in absolute charge of Austria's finances. In fact is a sort of benevolent dictator here, responsible to the league and to no one else.

He accepted the Vienna post for three months, but now he has given up his home in Holland, his work and all connections there to put his job of saving Austria for the Austrians everything he's got.

"Europe," he told me during the talk I had with him at his office in the old "Common Ministry of Finance" for Austria-Hungary, Johannesgasse 5, "is groping groping in the dark trying to find the way out.

"Here in Vienna we have lighted a candle—just a tiny flame—but with all the darkness in Europe today it ought to make itself seen.

Co-Operating Now

"Here in Austria, for the first time in the history of the world, we see nations unselfishly co-operating to save another nation. Austria's former enemies are here now trying to help her get on her feet.

"Austria's recent enemies have postponed indefinitely all claims against Austria whether for relief credits, reparations obligations or other.

"They have guaranteed the political independence, territorial integrity and sovereignty of Austria.

"They have joined together to raise money necessary to tide the country over the first critical months, and to obtain additional credits in the money markets of the world to see Austria through until her own budget balances.

Peace in Aim

"They have done and are doing all these things here in Austria with but one single object in view—the general peace and welfare.

"They are pledged not to seek, and none is seeking, in the slightest degree—and special economic or financial advantage in Austria.

"It is the first time such a thing has been known to happen. It is a new spirit. It is a candle showing the way.

"I am very hopeful. I think we shall succeed."

This is Home Garage Week

This week ESCAPE

—from the dangerous "Give me a quart of oil"

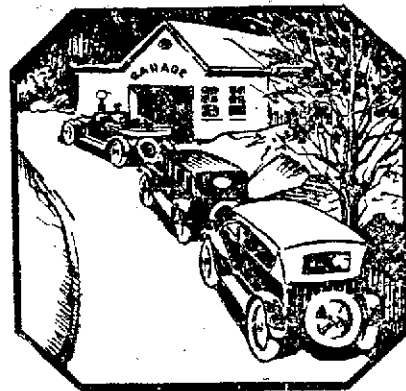

Why do so many veteran motorists and experienced operators of taxi-cabs and motor trucks buy their Gargoyle Mobiloil in large sealed containers. These are the reasons:

1. Certainty

(1) Certainty. They are sure that the Gargoyle Mobiloil sold in sealed containers is genuine. The purchase of loose "quarts of oil" sometimes tempts an unscrupulous dealer to substitute low-quality oil for genuine Gargoyle Mobiloil.

2. Convenience

(2) Convenience. With a 5-gallon can or a 15-, 30- or 55-gallon steel drum (with faucet) in your home garage, you always have an adequate supply of the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil on hand. You don't have to wait in line in front of the dealer's until he gets through serving gasoline and oil to customers ahead of you.

(3) Better operation. The best operating results are secured by maintaining the oil at the proper level. With Gargoyle Mobiloil in your home garage you can add every day the correct amount of "make-up" oil—a pint, a quart, or whatever amount you may need.

Even more important: The cutting effect of gasoline tends to thin down even the best lubricating oil. The daily addition of fresh oil builds up the body of the entire oil supply, and helps make up for this fuel admixture.

Containers for your Home Garage

During the week of May 7th to 12th, dealers all over the country are giving the home garage owner special attention. They have put in ample stocks of all grades of Gargoyle Mobiloil in the larger containers.

Gargoyle Mobiloil comes in 1-gallon and 5-gallon cans and in 15-, 30-, and 55-gallon steel drums, equipped with a convenient faucet. The 5-gallon can and 15-gallon drum will undoubtedly be very popular during Home Garage Week. The oil is cheaper than when bought in the 1-gallon can.

See your dealer today. Most leading dealers are displaying the Home Garage Week sign in their windows. They have the Vacuum Oil Company's complete Chart of Recommendations. On it you can quickly find the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil for your car.

LORD BLESS

The Abyss

AT ITS national convention in Des Moines, the League of Women Voters set up as its first objective "international co-operation to prevent war." The league's next step was to set aside the month of May as a period in which it would undertake to arouse America to the overwhelming importance of this issue, and to get from the country a positive and active reaction in favor of practical methods of establishing permanent peace.

At this juncture it may be well to meet the propaganda of the fringe element which has been aimed at the National Council for Prevention of War. These people have referred to the council, as they do to all organizations with like objectives, as bolsheviks. Perhaps it will not be necessary by way of refutation to do more than point out that the council has the endorsement of thirty odd national and international organizations of the highest type, whose patriotism is beyond suspicion. Among these are the American Farm Bureau Federation, Farmers' National Council, Girls' Friendly Society of America, National Association of Ex-Military Reconstruction Aids, National Board of Farm Organizations, National Board of W. C. A., National Council of Jewish Women, National Education Association, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, National League of Women Voters, National Women's Trade Union League and Women's Christian Temperance Union. These and many more have thrown their support to what appears to be the most practical program for combating war, and it is interesting to add that at the New Orleans convention the American Legion adopted a program almost identical with that of the National Council for the Prevention of War.

Skepticism about such movements is usually based upon a fear that they are controlled by such impractical persons as seem to believe that by setting the example of throwing away its own weapons, the United States has it in its power to bring about disarmament without entering into any co-operative relations with other countries, or that they are influenced by hostile foreign propaganda, or by American revolutionists who think revolution would be easy in a non-military commonwealth. This impression will be readily dispelled by putting the proposed program of the National Council for Prevention of War in a nutshell:

1. World organization under any name.
2. World wide reductions of armaments to police status.
3. Education for peace.

It will be observed that herein is the fundamental and essential thing—that disarmament is a world problem and must be worked out by the nations of the world in unison. When backed by the arguments as to the need and the methods, this leaves no ground for skepticism.

It was no theorist nor alarmist, but an American general who said that in a new war France could employ the aeroplane and gas to wipe out London in three days. We have come to the point where those who read and think know that this civilization has come to the forks of the way, and must choose between traveling toward permanency or toward destruction. American army and navy officers are preparing a reserve peace army of 3,000,000 men as "a nucleus." Politicians may talk, but the army and navy are practical. Watching Europe, they know that a new war is in the making, and unless the world prepares for peace, America must prepare for an inevitable and, to us, inescapable war. "If I catch the conscience of America, we shall lead the world to outlaw war," says President Harding. Brought into intimate contact with world affairs through the presidency, he now realizes that to which he was blind as a senator four years ago.

The step which the president urges, the World Court, is but a little one, but it will take all the power of the nation's conscience to complete even this little step. That is why the National Council for the Prevention of War is backing the World Court. It proposes to take every new step that can be taken, knowing that many mickles make a muckle, and that world inertia can be overcome only by slow and steady progress.

Wisconsin is the slowest of all states in recognizing the necessity of international co-operation to prevent war. This is not strange. The more progressive a state, the more highly developed its organizations for economic justice, the more are we retarded by complications between domestic and international problems, always overlapping and affecting one another. Nothing better illustrates this than the fact that the leader of domestic progress in this state, Senator Robert M. La Follette, is reactionary in international matters, probably because he feels that international understandings for any cause negotiated by the present ruling classes, tend to confirm the existence of industrial injustice in all countries. The opposite theory is that by keeping domestic and international problems separate we may be able to solidify both sides in our industrial and economic differences for the one great object of world peace. And Wisconsin is beginning to see this, for it will be observed that among the leaders in the world peace movement are women prominent in all sorts of domestic progressive political organizations.

We wish that in La Crosse there might be found some method of crystallizing existing sentiment into action. Possibly it could take the form of a central organization made up of representatives of all the various civic and social associations in the community. Such an assembly might urge a local program that would impress itself deeply upon the community, and might even arrest the attention of Wisconsin representatives who cling to the impossible idea of American isolation. Public meetings addressed by well informed speakers, of whom there are many in La Crosse, would help. School programs could bring the message to the youth of the town. A committee might be named to work out something practical in the way of textbooks aiming at international good feeling. There might be a public pageant contrasting peace and war. It may be said that all of these things would be mere gestures, but there must be some method of inducing people to stop drifting, to select the fork of the road that leads to peace, and to compel the attention of those to whom they have entrusted the welfare of this and coming generations.

We must impress congress. We must back such administrative measures as are undertaken, and urge their extension. We can not stand still. The world can not stand still. We must move toward war, or away from it. To drift is to drift toward war. Since 1918 we have been drifting.

About the best way to make an enemy is to agree with a man when he says he looks bad.

Who remembers the old-fashioned normalcy that lived just around a corner so long?

In these trying days, people will try anything.

The hod carriers of the city went on strike yesterday for a raise of two and one-half cents an hour. The tanners are also on strike for higher wages as are the tinners who demand a shortening of their hours from ten to nine, with the same pay per day and a minimum for journeymen of twenty-five cents per hour. How William Lost To Win

By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD

Coralie Strickland, her father, Billy Hamilton, and Jimmy Cross sat on the afterdeck of the City of Miami. Within a few hours they would dock at Tampa.

Suddenly Jimmy chuckled and resumed the conversation where it had dropped. "Why, William here, blasted aristocrat, couldn't do a day's work to keep from starving?"

Billy nodded. "Can't," he said. "I could make work eat out of my hand."

Coralie smiled doubtfully. Jimmy, taking advantage of that smile, burst out as if suddenly inspired: "Why, I'll bet an even thousand right now that you can't leave this boat with a five in your pocket and land in New York by your own efforts!"

Billy hesitated and his lips tightened. It was a dirty trick to get him out of the way, but he didn't care. He was with Coralie. Yet, before her, he couldn't back down. "Well, I'll take you up," he said shortly.

These preliminaries explain Mr. William Hamilton's presence the following day, in a Tampa employment agency. Seated at a bench beside him was a dozen down-and-outers, he was meditating whether, in his case, "absence would make the heart grow fonder"—fonder of the other fellow, when the head of the agency beckoned to him.

"Want this?" he asked, and handed Billy a letter.

"Please send another man to Bright Orange Ranch—one with backbone this time," HARDY JACKSON said.

Billy looked at "why the backbone" he inquired.

"Well," said the other frankly, "there seems to be a grudge against the fellow that runs the place. However, it is gets Ku Klux Klan imitations every now and then to drive 'em off the place, and they're plucky, but the two of them's plucky and have stuck so far."

Billy hesitated. The job wouldn't take him directly to New York, but it might lead him to adventure, and to one of his goals, that seemed an even more desirable destination.

After a dusty tramp he reached the ranch. As he stepped on the veranda, a gray-haired man appeared at the doorway, and at his side a young girl whom Billy decided off-hand was one of the prettiest he had ever seen.

"I'm from the agency," said Billy. Jackson looked puzzled and the low voice of the girl broke in. "We want a laborer, and she said, 'Shirley!'"

At this moment a huge car drove up, and a stocky individual climbed down, muttering my offer yet, Jackson," he called.

"No, I won't," returned Jackson. "I intend to hang on—in spite of the fact that my father-in-law is a peculiar emphasis to his last words. The other shrugged his shoulders, got back in the car and drove off, while Billy wondered what it was all about. Jackson turned to him. "Come in," he said. "You might as well have a try at it. You won't want to stay."

But men have lingered in unpleasant situations before this, detained by family affairs, and such, murmured Shirley. Jackson possessed quite all her share. Billy's vision of Coralie was dimming.

After supper Billy learned how Jackson had sunk his all in the little ranch and was on the way to making a good thing of it when some group of real estate men decided they needed his property and were using underhand methods to obtain it without paying anything near its value.

The latest stunt is night riding to intimidate us," said Jackson. "We ought to be able to manage them. Let me see—tell me about it first and then—well, I'd like to get a telegram."

With the sending of the telegram Billy lost his waver, but in the light of the adventure which seemed ahead of him he regarded the loss as trivial.

"Dear Jimmy—You win! Have given up attempt to beat so New York. Meet me at Grenoble Hotel. Good little game up my sleeve. Need your help. RILLY."

For an instant was his resentment against Jim. Forgiveness was Coralie's doubting smile. His thoughts were full of the night riders and Shirley.

The night riders came. Ah, yes, they came. At midnight of the very day that Billy and Jimmy and Hardy Jackson worked feverishly from the moment dusk fell. Scarcely, in fact, were the preparations complete when they heard the thud of distant hoofs.

Presently in the distance appeared eight wildly attired figures, who fled slowly past Billy's hiding place by an outlying road. When the last one was by Billy pulled a rope which suspended over a high branch, dragged across a wire behind them, a wire that was barred and was charged.

Noise was unavoidable, and a startled oath broke from one of the horsemen.

"You're trapped!" yelled Jackson out of the darkness. With a murmur of consternation the men scattered their hoofs about seeking an outlet through the wire inclosure.

"You're riding on dynamite!" yelled Billy, twice it dim.

Jim, some distance away, threw a switch. With a deafening roar the dirt flew in a cloud and the horses became almost unmanageable.

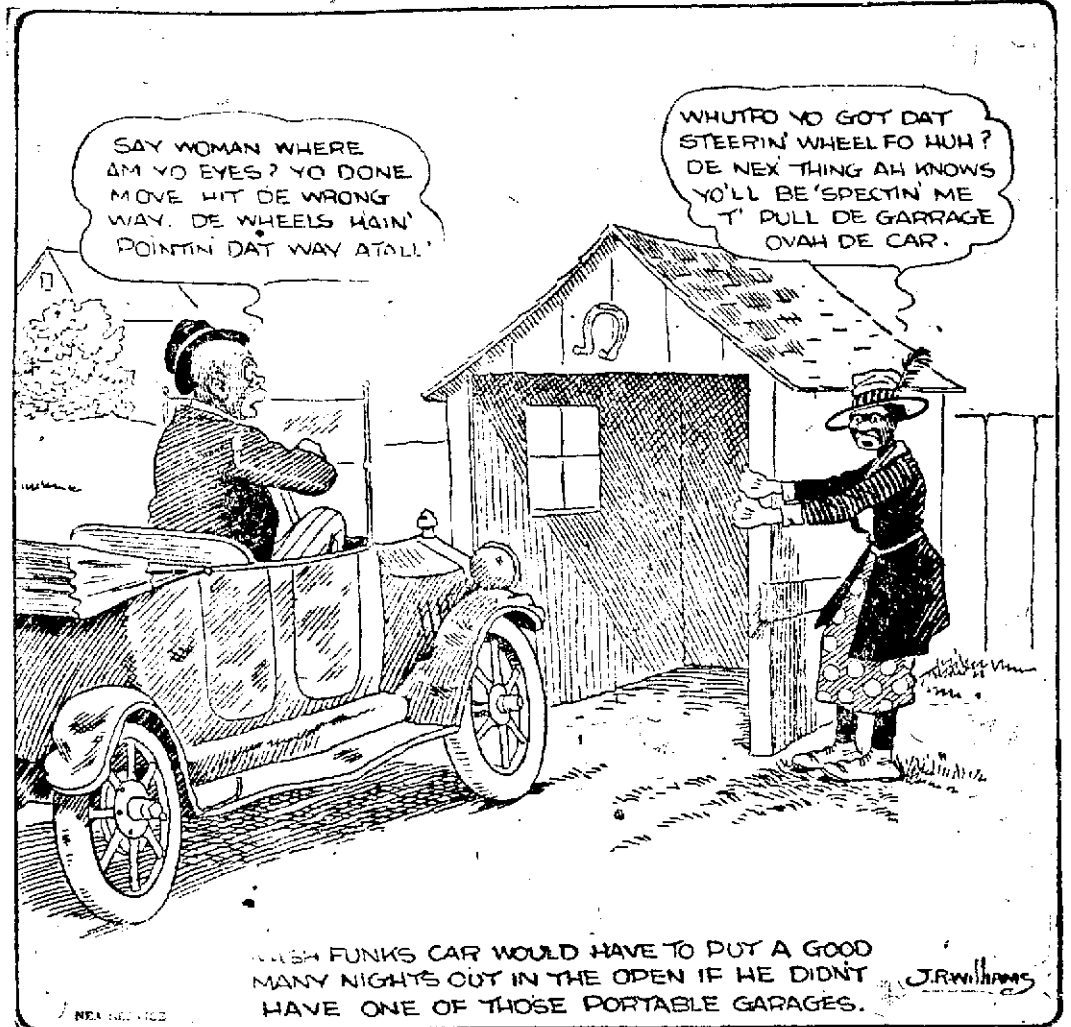

An Apology

We wish to express our regrets for the seeming lack of prompt attention given customers Thursday and Friday during our Dress Sale. We anticipated and provided what we thought an adequate number of sales women for an unusually enthusiastic response, but we admit the response exceeded our greatest expectations and our organization was taxed to the utmost.

We trust, however, that you will overlook the seeming lack of attention, as perfect service is our constant endeavor.

Fred W. Kruse Co.

OUT OUR WAY

"Disarmament, one at a time!" demanded Jackson.

Totally unprepared for the reception they had received, the men saw nothing for it but to flee. Fighting charged wires and dynamite in the darkness was not feasible.

Hands up, in a row on the veranda, their captors regarded them.

"You look damn silly," said William. "We intend to march you into town in the morning unless—" and he spoke directly to the man he had heard make the offer to Jackson the day of his arrival—"you prefer to offer Jackson what he paid for the place and a good-sized bonus to boot to pay him for all this annoyance."

And the choice the man made was the only one possible.

As for Coralie, she heard all about the affair from Jimmy, and although Jimmy's arm was about her at the time and his ring sparkled on her finger, there was a wistful look in her eyes as perhaps there always is when a woman hears that an old-time admirer has transferred his admiration.

"Yes," Jimmy was saying, "Billy's going north with them. It is plain to see that Shirley worships the ground he walks on and—well, believe me, old Billy is back."

SPARTA HAS CONFERENCE NEXT MONTH

SPARTA has been chosen as the place of the first meeting of the seventh district of the Wisconsin state conference of social work, to be held the last of June. Aubrey Williams, secretary of the conference, and Judge J. A. Hill of Baraboo, district chairman, plan a live program. The people from La Crosse who will probably attend the conference are Mrs. Susie B. Bruce, chairman of La Crosse county for the state conference, Mrs. E. C. Thompson, Miss Viola Mohr, city nurse, Miss Marie Bagan, county nurse, and a number of others who are interested in welfare work in the county.

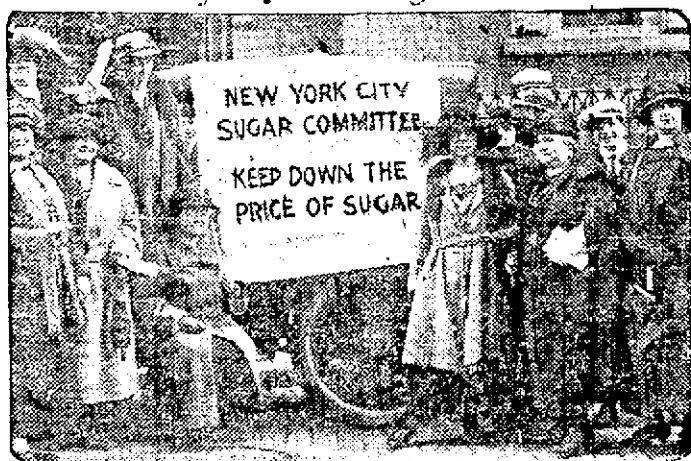

Dr. Prince Leader
Dr. L. H. Prince of the State School for Dependent Children at Sparta, will take active part in the conference. Dr. Prince is one of Wisconsin's most progressive and vital social workers, and offers inspiration to whatever movement he backs. His special interest is in the underprivileged child, and his purpose is to give each child a square deal.

"Education is in its broadest sense, a means toward producing good citizenship," says Dr. Prince, and for this reason educators are interested in the child in everything pertaining to his life. In Sparta, then, before a community can hope to come with the program of good citizenship, it must first develop the correct relation between a neglected dependent child and later knowledge and citizenship. Proper care of these children will, to a considerable extent, rid the community of the problems which have to do with the state care of its dependent children, its delinquents, its criminals, its insane, its feeble minded and its mentally defective general.

Urges Better Care
If Wisconsin wishes to solve the problem of the ever-increasing number of the defective child, we must pay more attention to the matter of the defective child, education, training and training of the child and young children of the child, in Dr. Prince's contention.

MANNERS

By NORMA TALMADGE

Launching of a ship is surrounded by sailors with many superstitions. If the launching is a success, the ship goes to sea with a crew free of misgivings. A girl launches her social ship when she makes her debut. If it be successful, her social career has received a most desirable impulse. Whether it's a complete success or a partial failure, depends more on her personal conduct than any other feature.

The Debutante

1: A debut may be made at a ball afternoon tea with dancing, small dance, small tea without music or simply by issuance of her mother's visiting card with the daughter's engraved below her own.

2: At a ball each guest shakes hands with the debutante and she should receive as long as they continue to arrive.

3: The debutante's supper partner is one who has spoken for the privilege weeks or months in advance of the event.

4: The debutante must dance well or she had better stay away from balls or dances and exploit her other abilities, such as being able to play a good hand at bridge or a good game of golf.

5: The debutante should remember that it's folly to try to do anything socially unless one can do it well.

6: It's bad manners for a young woman over to put her hand on a man, except in dancing or in taking the arm of a wedding usher or a dinner or supper partner.

BILL TO REGULATE DANCE HALLS GOES TO THE GOVERNOR

MADISON, Wis.—The Ridgway senate bill granting county boards authority to regulate dance halls and places of amusement was concurred in by the assembly Friday and sent to the governor.

The senate state affairs committee bill making it a misdemeanor for any person to appear in a public place while wearing a mask except on occasions of amusement, was passed to third reading by the lower house.

The Jolly anti-oleomargarine bill was debated at some length, and finally tabled pending the adjustment of several amendments.

The Weller joint resolution, amending the constitution so as to empower the state to appoint money for the acquisition and development of forests was adopted and sent to the senate. The assembly reconsidered its action by which it killed the Ankersen bill, making the maintenance of vocational schools optional with cities of the fourth class, and enacted the bill. It killed the Petersen bill prohibiting the discontinuance or suspension of college courses in normal schools by the board of regents save by consent of the legislature.

GIRL "BORROWED" BABY TO FOOL HER HUSBAND, HE SAYS

Superior Man Leaves Wife and Says He Won't Support
Some One Else's Child

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Did Irene J. Jeffery, now believed to be in Eveleth, borrow the illegitimate baby of a 18 year old girl friend and use it as her own to deceive her husband?

Walter Jeffery, Superior, who left his wife because she was "running wild," asserts that he will not support the child of some one else. According to Mr. Jeffery's story, he was informed on July 6, 1922, that his wife had given birth to a baby boy at a Duluth rooming house, where she had been staying for two months.

Returned With Baby

According to the proprietress of the hotel, on the morning of July 6, Mrs. Jeffery, called Irene, had left the hotel for about three hours, returning with the baby. She went immediately to bed with the infant and waited for her husband.

He accepted the child in good faith and he and his wife and the baby returned to their home in Superior. When, however, she left the baby constantly in the care of a nurse and seemed to show no affection for it, he started an investigation.

That the allegation of this particular child from a girl friend to save her from disgrace, had been in Irene's mind for some time seemed apparent from the story told reporters by the proprietress of the hotel.

BLAINE SIGNS BILL TO LIMIT HOURS OF WOMEN IN HOTELS

Ten-year Fight Ended With Signature of Killian Bill by the Governor

WAREHOUSE BILL ALSO MADE LAW BY BLAINE SIGNATURE

Third Measure Approved by the Executive on Friday

MADISON, Wis.—A ten year fight to bring hotels under the provisions of the Wisconsin law limiting the hours of work of women was ended Friday with Governor Blaine's signature to the Killian bill establishing a 10 hour day and 55 hour week for women hotel workers.

Previous legislatures have uniformly killed similar bills intended to extend the hours of labor law. It was by compromise that the senate during the present session voted to bring the bill under the statute.

The original bill, passed by the assembly, called for a nine-hour working day and a 50 hour week for day work and an eight hour day for night work by women in hotels. A senate amendment adopted by a narrow margin, established a ten hour day for day work and a 55 hour week with nine-hours of night work and a 54 hour week. In that form the bill became a law. The industrial commission is directed by the new statute to enforce its provisions.

Signs Warehouse Bill

Governor Blaine Friday also signed the Allen bill establishing a full-time grain commission of three members to supervise the warehouses at Superior. This measure provides that the members of the commission are to be compensated with a salary of $200 a month. A $55,000 appropriation is allowed to carry on their work.

A bill sponsored by the public welfare committee of the assembly was signed, making it unlawful for any person, firm or corporation operating any hotel, restaurant, dining car or other public eating place or operating a bakery, to employ any person having a venereal disease.

This statute would empower officials to require an examination of persons employed in these places and suspected of being diseased. A penalty is imposed.

Tuberculosis sanitariums are opened to persons "having symptoms of tuberculosis calling for careful observation for diagnosis," under provisions of a bill sponsored by Senator Ridgway, which was signed by the governor today.

INSPECT ORE DOCKS

SUPERIOR, Wis.—Officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Chicago & Northwestern railroads Friday were enroute to Escanaba, Mich., after completing an inspection of the huge concrete ore docks of the Great Northern road here. It was indicated that new construction work contemplated by both roads at the Michigan city will be patterned after the docks here. The Northwestern also contemplates construction of a new dock at Ashland, Wis.

The rail men also investigated the contract method of handling ore shipments as practiced by the Hill lines here for the past four years. It was hinted both roads might operate their docks by contract labor this year.

In commemoration of the two hundredth anniversary of the architect, Sir Christopher Wren street may be the name of a new street crossing at the site of London's old General post-office.

LA CROSSE BOYS HELD UP BY YEGGS ON FREIGHT TRAIN

A story of how they were held up and searched at the point of a gun by three yeggmen on a Milwaukee road freight train, forced to lie face down for two hours, and then compelled to leap from the speeding train as it passed through the Winona yards, was told to police at La Crosse, but no trace of the yeggmen has been found.

The hold-up occurred after the train left Wabasha. It was about 2 a. m.

The men reported the hold-up to Winona police, who at once communicated with authorities at La Crosse, but no trace of the yeggmen has been found.

The men were John Hanson, 21; Leonard Gerky, 20; and Alois Fritz, 21. They had no money in their possession, and the yeggmen failed to obtain a thing of value, they said. The hold-up occurred after the train left Wabasha. It was about 2 a. m.

The men were John Hanson, 21; Leonard Gerky, 20; and Alois Fritz, 21. They had no money in their possession, and the yeggmen failed to obtain a thing of value, they said. The hold-up men overlooked a watch in Fritz' pocket. The men escaped with bruises in their forehead, leap from the train, which they estimated was traveling 30 miles an hour, al-

FRANCE HAS MADE NOTABLE ADVANCES IN FIELD OF RADIO

Now Has Largest, Most Efficient and Most Powerful Wireless Equipment in Europe

PARIS.—While the United States has been carrying on an intensive campaign in wireless broadcasting and the use of radio by amateurs, France has been hard at work developing its commercial wireless business through private enterprise. Today France has the largest, most efficient and most powerful wireless equipment in Europe. Unlike England, France took the opportunity during the war of developing this new means of communication.

Today the French Government has four high-powered stations. Most Americans are familiar with the great Eiffel Tower, which carries its great framework into the Paris skyline like a giant finger and catches radio messages from around the world. It is in continuous contact with Arlington near Washington, and all the other great American stations. Next in importance comes the station at Nantes, which is allocated to the French navy; the station at Lyons, which was erected during the war and is used by the Post Office for communications to America, Africa, Europe and the French colonies; and the great Lafayette station, near Bordeaux, which was built by the American navy and later acquired by the French government. The Lafayette tower sends daily communications to Madagascar, Martinique and Saigon. The government also controls a large propaganda and official communications.

Two Big Stations.—The chief wireless installation in France is now that of the Air Force and consists of two stations, one for European traffic and one for world communication. It was necessary to build this powerful station because of the inadequacy of the submarine cables and telegraph lines and the lack of capacity of the other wireless stations for continuous long distance communication. The Air Force station undertakes rapid and intensive service to North and South America and with the Far East and Indo-China.

To show the progress radio is making in this country it may be mentioned that the total number of words transmitted from France to the United States increased from 533,731 in November, 1922, to 486,970 in January, 1923. The number of daily messages sent in January was more than the combined number sent out from France by the two chief submarine cable companies.

Concessions Granted

Commercial radio is operated by the Company Radio-France, a subsidiary of the French Wireless Company. The parent company, the Compagnie Generale de Telegraphie Sans Fil, has a concession for 30 years from the French government, granted in December, 1920, but dating from Jan. 1, 1924. The public interests and state requirements in time of war are safeguarded. The parent company is in alliance with the Mar-

France has long-distance two-way stations at Buenos Aires, Beirut, and Saigon and a long-distance transmitting station is being built in Madagascar. It will thus be seen that the French radio system covers the world, and a large radio manufacturing industry has been built up in France by private enterprise which has free scope for development abroad. The state does not aspire to make a profit on its radio service, which is, indeed, heavily subsidized.

The giant Ste. Assise station, which is 30 miles from Paris, is designed to transmit 200 words a minute. For transmission and reception the station is capable of a total of 100,000 words an hour compared with an average of 36,000 words a day by the best submarine cable to America. The rates charged are approximately a third less than the cable tolls.

The 3-Mile "Kick" In the Rum Ruling

Three miles out in the ocean runs an imaginary line along our shores which divides the "dry" land and water of the United States from the "wet" world without. Within that line (and within similar lines around our insular possessions), no foreign ship, be she British, French, Italian, Portuguese, may carry sealed or unsealed, a single drop of intoxicating liquor for beverage purposes. Outside those lines our own ships may legally serve intoxicants without limit.

This recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court, in the opinions of many editors, is likely to arouse international complications. Some heads of European steamship companies say they will abide by the letter and spirit of American rulings altho others hope that there will not be very rigid enforcements. Some rather amazing predictions about what will happen have been current in news and editorial columns of leading newspapers.

All phases of this new development in the working of the Volstead Act are reflected in an interesting article in this week's issue of THE LITERARY DIGEST, May 12th.

SENATE COMMITTEE ON REFORESTATION VISITING MADISON

Discuss Situation in Wisconsin With Forestry Experts and Public Officials

MADISON, Wis.—The fast dwindling forests of Wisconsin are to receive the attention of the select committee on reforestation of the United States senate, which meets here Friday afternoon to determine what this state is doing to conserve and to develop its timberlands.

The committee composed of Senators Moses of New Hampshire, Connors of Michigan, McNary of Oregon, Fletcher of Florida, and Harrison of Mississippi, is to meet at the Forest Products laboratory to hear forestry experts and public officials discuss the Wisconsin forest situation.

Only a few years ago Wisconsin was the leading timber state of the nation, while today only a meager area of forest land remains. Without a state policy of reforestation the trees that are left are said by the conservation commission to be fast disappearing for lumber purposes.

Among those who plan to testify before the senate committee to explain the possibilities of future reforestation and protection of existing timber property are President E. A. Farge of the University of Wisconsin; Governor Blaine, C. L. Harrington, state forester; Thomas Lyons, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission; Judge M. B. Rosenberry of the supreme court, and Dean H. L. Russell of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for Washing Hair

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali, which is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Multified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely free of alkali. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Multified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Multified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Multified coconut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Multified.

POSTOFFICE HAS TOO MUCH TRADE; GOING INTO HOLE

Not too Little But too Much Business is Harry New's
Worry

By HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer
WASHINGTON.—Too much business is what's troubling Harry S. New, postmaster general at the end of his first month as head of Uncle Sam's postal service.

New, it is unofficially reported here, is considering violating the law in order to maintain deliveries and to prevent a demoralizing breakdown in postal service.

The "violation" will consist in shifting certain appropriations for maintenance of the service which are rigidly fixed by law to the law which New, as a senator, supported.

New is reported to have conferred with President Harding with regard to taking this action.

With the volume of mail matter increasing at an unprecedented rate, New and his assistants are living awake nights trying to devise ways to make the department live within the Congressional appropriation limits.

Early in March, a blanket order was sent to city postmasters to cut delivery expense to the limit. The extent of these cuts was left to the discretion of postmasters.

As a result, many postmasters cut more deeply than discretion. A large percentage of them sought to retrench on parcel post deliveries.

In some towns, where two deliveries a day had been made, one delivery was ordered. In New York, where six deliveries were cut to five, the operation was less painful.

But the immediate effect was a loud and nation-wide cry on the part of the public. The reputation for good mail service, which Will Hays had built up, seemed to be forgotten.

Mail service curtailed—what's the use? Why? Wherefore? What's the big idea? The public wanted to know.

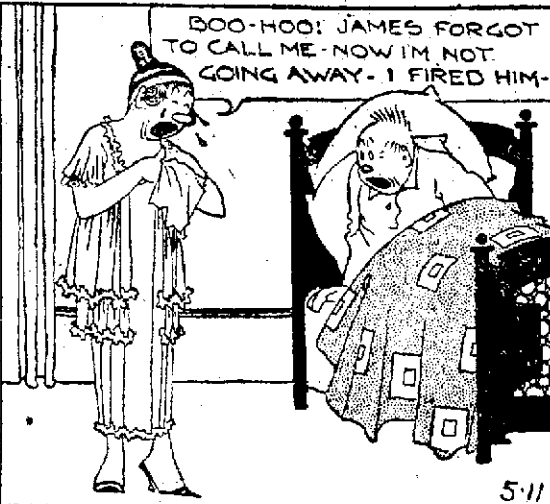

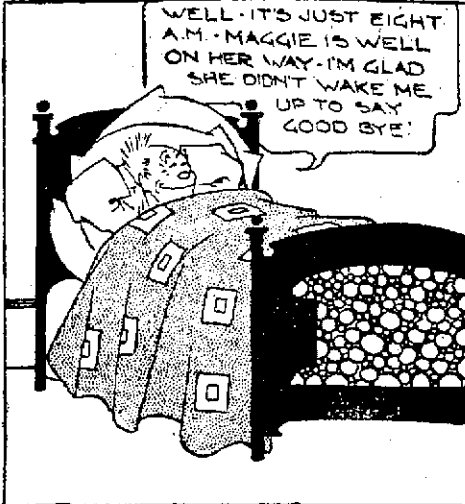

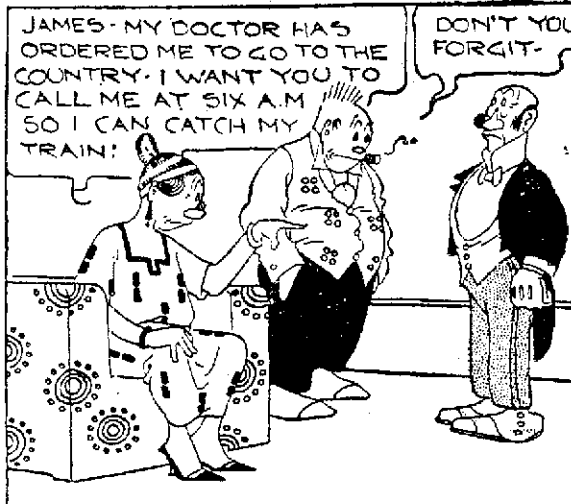

Quick attention was sent to postmasters that they were expected to use some judgment in effecting the curtailments.

Simultaneously, assurances were handed to the press for distribution to the public that service, not surplus, is the aim of the postal service and that the mails will be delivered—eventually, if not now.

Meanwhile, with less than three months to go to the end of the fiscal year, a deficit of perhaps $40,000,000 is in sight. There seems no hope of holding it under $20,000,000 and it may reach $60,000,000.

Total appropriation for the year

BRINGING UP FATHER—

are $573,763,766.50. This is an increase of about 4 per cent or some $28,000,000 over the expenditures for 1922, which Congress believed would allow for normal postal growth.

A check made on postal business for the nine months ending March 31, however, indicates an increase in the volume of business of 13.12 per cent, or about double the average annual increase for the past 40 years.

In Hot Water

Wherefore, Secretary New is having his troubles. The more business the more the expense and the greater deficit he must report.

For the postoffice department, unlike a business house, does not increase its income in proportion to increased revenue. All earnings are turned into the United States treasury, and the service is called on to operate within the Congressional appropriation.

Still, postal deficits will be nothing new—no reflection on New. In fact, they're the regular thing. Burlington built up surpluses while postmaster general—and the higher the surplus, the louder the public yelled for better service.

So, if New goes ahead on his latest "service not surplus" decision, he still may offset the effect of the March retrenchment order.

CONGRESS PROBES JOKES SENATOR ASHBURST SAYS

LOS ANGELES.—Congressional investigations are "jokes," Henry F. Ashbust, United States senator from Arizona, said here in the course of an interview in which he also declared "sugar prices are three times too high."

"The only effective way to combat the profiteers," he continued, "is by boycotts, drastic actions by district attorneys and grand jury investigations which will persist until convictions are secured and heavy punishment meted out regardless of whether the offenders be rich or poor."

BLAZING OIL ENVELOPS WOMAN; BURNS FATAL

SHEBOYGAN, Wis.—Mrs. John Barthel, 35 years old, was burned to death at Cleveland, Manitowish county. She was lighting a kerosene heating stove when it exploded, throwing blazing oil all over her. This happened in the basement and she ran upstairs and to the outer door, screaming for help, a mass of flames. Neighbors tried to give her aid, but her clothing was burned off and her skin completely roasted. She died five hours later. She was alone in the house at the time, with the exception of a 3 year old baby.

LENROOT UTTERS WARNING AGAINST JAPS IN HAWAII

Predicts Governmental Control of Islands by Japanese Within Ten-year Period

TWO-THIRDS OF POPULATION NOW JAPANESE SAYS SENATOR

Native-born Voters Will Soon
Outnumber Natives and Whites

SUPERIOR, Wis.—A menace, considered, is said to exist in Hawaii declared U. S. Senator Irvine L. Len-root of Superior just home from an extended tour of the island, possession. Unless some step be taken, and at once, Senator Lenroot predicted, Japanese will have assumed the virtue of numbers, the governmental authority of Hawaii.

"Over two thirds of the population of Hawaii is Japanese today," Senator Lenroot asserted. "Within ten years the Japan voters, by right of their birth there, will far outnumber the natives and Americans, thus gaining control of the territory."

Senator Lenroot charged that despite denials by the Japanese government at Tokyo, Japanese children attending Japanese schools in Hawaii are taught allegiance to the land of the mikado, rather than to the United States. Senator Lenroot said evidence everywhere on the island was "overwhelmingly against the denials of the government at Tokyo" in this regard.

The Wisconsin senator took a firm stand in support of the Harding world court. "The great benefit of the court," he said, "would be gathered from the fact that it would be the first step toward the settlement of international disputes by other than force."

Discussing the proposed deepwaterway to the ocean by way of the Great Lakes, Senator Lenroot predicted that Canada will shortly accept the American invitation to join in carrying out the project within a comparatively short time. He declared that the program of financing the project was already solved by financial interests of the country who have "already volunteered to take over the whole project."

SAYS UNITED STATES MUST

must maintain an army and navy adequate for a country of its size, but the policy of national defense must be well defined, Vice President Coolidge said in an address.

TITLED WOMEN IN BRITAIN SEEKING "PAYING GUESTS"

Many Forced to Take in Lodgers
Because of Financial Difficulties

LONDON.—One of the significant signs of the times is the number of titled women who are taking boarders because they are hard up. They are advertising for them, too, but they do not call them "boarders."
They refer to them as "paying guests"—a term which, it is said, has not yet obtained currency in America.

There is no real difference between "boarders" and "paying guests" except that the latter are charged more.
Boarders are regarded as quite vulgar, while paying guests are assumed to be people of some social position.

One titled lady advertises that she has a wide circle of titled people among her friends and acquaintances to whom she will introduce "paying guests" and that nobody will know they are not her own particular friends. It is added in the advertisement that "liberal terms" are "expected."

"A lady of title," runs another advertisement, "will accept the cham-berage of a few young ladies of good breeding for whom she will guarantee 'exceptional social advantages' and will organize dances, parties and entertainments."

Another advertisement runs, "A lady of title who used to entertain on a lavish scale before the war but is no longer able to indulge her fondness for hospitality on such a generous scale as formerly will receive some highly recommended paying guests at large and magnificently furnished ancestral mansion standing in midst of beautiful and extensive estate. Only people who have been accustomed to moving in the best society will be received."

That is one way of hinting that the rates charged will be considerably more than at a first class hotel.
One advertisement that appeared recently read: "A few American young ladies whose parents can appreciate value of a refined and cultivated English accent received as paying guests by two ladies of title who will instruct them in the manners and deportment of people who move in the best English society. References exchanged."

arrow on record is 424 yards, made in

NORMALS RETURN AFTER VICTORIOUS ROAD ENGAGEMENT

Defeat Champion and Platteville Normal; Tie Columbia College, 8 to 8

Coach Nohr and his ball team rolled into this city Thursday after a three-game road trip in which the Maroon and Gray were victorious in two games and tied in the third.

Thursday afternoon, the La Crosse outfit took the Columbia college game into camp, a score of 5 to 1. Hoover on the slab for La Crosse, was the outstanding star. He shifted eight men, made 10 assists for putouts, and then was credited with two hits out of four times to bat. Hoover has made a wonderful record this year and has jumped into the spotlight at La Crosse normal in short order. On the trip he finished every game and the last he practically won himself. Reynolds and Shier also must be given credit for their work on the mound.

The first game of the trip was somewhat of a fiasco for the Maroon and Gray, as cold weather prevented them from getting started. Although Columbia had the same difficulty, reports came back that the Maroon and Gray was a harder fighting outfit, and had the game gone a full nine innings Coach Nohr's cohorts would have been resting on top.

The game with Platteville proved to be a battle, the home team winning 2 to 1. With La Crosse having a one-run lead, Platteville came to bat and with two outs, Chalmers, Platteville's heavy hitter, knocked a hard drive to center. Kennedy hit a catch to catch a home run but Carl made a perfect throw to Quinn and Chalmers was out and the game was over.

Coach Nohr will rest his men for the rest of the week, probably giving them a little batting practice Saturday. Efforts are being made to bring Columbia college here next Wednesday, and if things go right Coach Nohr will sign them up. Columbia college is a sturdy ball club and this game would prove to be an attraction if they can be brought here.

MONTAGUES TO MAKE FIRST OUT-OF-TOWN APPEARANCE AGAINST WINONAS SUNDAY

VICTORIOUS in their first game of the season against the La Crosse Nelsons at Copeland park, the Montague 1923 baseball club will make its first appearance outside the city when it meets Lucky Rose's, Winonas at Winona Sunday afternoon.

"Syl" McCauley will twirl for the Montagues again Sunday, according to announcement of Frank J. Bedessem, business manager, who Thursday afternoon received a wire from Mac saying he would report.

The remainder of the line-up will no doubt be, Groski, short; Johnson at third; Collins, left field; Mills, first base; Fitzke, center field; Franzini, catcher; Weigert, second base; Bill Angell, right field; and Harry Angell, utility.

No definite announcement of the Winonas line-up had been made as late as Thursday, but it was intimated by Manager Rose that Captain Rickhusch and Norman and Elmer Fiedler would be in the line-up. McPherson, a new man hailing from Stillwater, will again be behind the bat for Winona, and Voges, a St. Paul man, who appeared with the Winonas for a part of last season, will probably also be with the club in Sunday's game, according to Manager Rose.

Who will do the hurling for the Winonas has not been announced by Manager Rose as yet.

PARK BOARD ISSUES RULES GOVERNING BASEBALL FOR MONTAGUE AND NELSON CLUBS

RULES which will govern baseball played at Copeland park by the Montague and La Crosse Nelson teams have been issued by the park board.

Mainly, the rules provide that all games played by these teams shall be governed by the National Association of professional baseball rules, and that the park board shall have full power of appointment of the arbiters.

Publication of the park board resolution was temporarily delayed pending decisions on a number of points.

Following is the Park Board's communication:

Meeting of the Park Board held May 2nd, 1923, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

The following rules shall govern baseball on and after May 6th 1923, played in Copeland Park.

Rule 1. All games played in which either La Crosse Nelsons or Montague Base Ball Teams play either with each other or other teams, shall be governed by the National Association of professional Base Ball League rules.

Rule 2 The Park Board shall appoint four official umpires and fill vacancies.

Rule 3. The umpires so appointed shall rotate for all games played, excepting city series. The salaries of umpires shall be fixed by the Park Commission.

Rule 4. A visiting team may furnish one umpire to officiate with the Park Board umpire. The Park Board umpire shall be umpire in chief, and the visiting team shall compensate their own umpire.

Rule 5. In case a fine is levied on any player or club, the same shall go to the City Park Fund, the local club participating shall be responsible for the fine to the Park Commission, and such fine levied on any visiting player or club, shall be deducted from the amount to be paid to that club.

Above rules and regulations shall be and remain in force during the pleasure of the Park Board.

It was further resolved, that the following are appointed, as official umpires and shall serve in order in which they are named, subject to rule as to rotation: George Krogan, Joe Safford, Robert Nohr and N. Bartel.

POLA NEGRI AT MAJESTIC

Pola Negri, star of "Passion," "Gypsy Blood," "The Arabian Night" and numerous other photoplays which have raised her to the pinnacle of cinema fame, will be seen at the Majestic theater for four days, beginning Sunday in a new picture called "Mad Love."

This is said to be a high-powered emotional drama which gives the famous Polish beauty even better opportunity than did the great picture that hurled her into world-wide fame. The star herself has declared that "Mad Love" and "Passion" are her two best pictures.

The scope for acting in "Mad Love" is unusually varied. The star runs the whole gamut of human emotions in this film—and plays upon the hearts of spectators with the sure practiced fingers of a master musician strumming upon the strings of a harp.

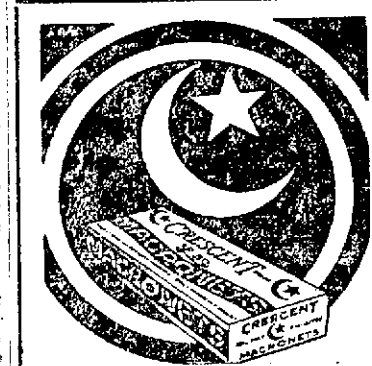

FARNUM AT STRAND TODAY
"The Fighting Gyn," starring Frankie Farnum and Edith Johnson, is the type of comedy drama that will appeal to any audience who love to see comic situations, suspense and action; the villain thwarted at the last minute and the hero marry the beautiful heroine and they live happily ever after to a "fade out."

"YOU CAN'T FOOL YOUR WIFE"
Voted great by a capacity audience, "You Can't Fool Your Wife" is showing at the Rivoli this week. Independent of its superiority as a picture, the various characters are portrayed by noted screen artists, those featured being Leatrice Joy, Lewis Stone, Nita Naldi and Pauline Garon. This is a domestic drama of merit and ex-ery scene has a punch of its own. The story is one of absorbing interest.

RIVIERA TODAY

It is not every motion picture director who, when called upon to stage some realistic fight, battle or encounter, is enabled to call into use some of the actual participants of a similar and more genuine scene, nor he afforded the opportunity of utilizing instruments of fighting which have actually played a part in such an occurrence. The mutiny staged by Elmer Clifton, producer and director of "Down to the Sea in Ships," which comes to the Casino theatre on Saturday, on board the square-rigger, "Charles W. Morgan," was in no sense of the word a "strawberry festival," but a real he-man fight. Captain James A. Tilton, engaged as skipper of the craft, which was engaged for an actual whale hunt in the Caribbean Sea, rehearsed with Mr. Clifton an actual mutiny which he participated in years ago, and which was staged with genuine and realistic fury. Captain participating in the fighting.

"BIG GAME IN AFRICA"

When "Hunting Big Game in Africa" was starting its exceptional Broadway run in New York City, Mr. Quinn Martin, the noted photoplay critic of the New York World wrote the following:

"This is one of the most exciting educational motion pictures that have been made aside from the fact that H. A. Snow poked his camera right up under the noses of the wildest animals of the African jungles and came away with pictures of the whites of the beast's eyes.

"There have been motion pictures before showing scenes of home life and habits of the rhinoceros, the hyena and the leopard, but Mr. Snow and his son, Sidney, who headed the expedition which is now pictured on Broadway, evidently decided that in order to thrill their audiences they would have to take a chance on losing their lives every time they snapped a scene. Angry elephants and uneducated lions come rushing in upon the party with such fury that they seem to be leaping over the orchestra pit."

CASINO TODAY

In her new comedy, "Eden and Return," Miss May portrays a vicious sub-deb who becomes involved in all manner of difficulties when her father, a prominent Wall Street operator, selects three young men and demands that his daughter marry one of them forthwith. As Betty Baylock, Miss May brings to the screen a wholly delightful quality of good, clean comedy.

BLUE BOOK READY FOR DISTRIBUTION EARLY NEXT MONTH

MADISON, Wis.—All applications for Wisconsin Blue Books must be made to the superintendent of public property, and should not be made to the state printer, David Atwood, state printer, announced. He said that he was being swamped with requests for volumes.

The Blue Book for 1923 will be ready for distribution during the first part of June, Mr. Atwood announced. He explained that one copy is sent to each rural school of the state, and enough copies in cities to supply six to each school. City superintendents are asked to certify the number needed by them to fill their city quotas. Members of the legislature receive 200 copies each.

The Thrill of a Lifetime!

See the battle with a 90-ton bull whale in mid-Atlantic. If only King Tutankhamen had lived today. He would have ordered carried to the tomb of Luxor the film treasure of all time—

WHAT THE CRITICS SAY—

Boston Advertiser:
The screen has gained one of its few veritable classics. It is a veritable masterpiece of beauty and truth.

Boston Morning Globe:
One of the most beautiful photographs ever made.

Morling Telegraph:
It is a pleasure to see such a fine piece of work.

Philadelphia North American:
One of the most interesting pictures ever produced. It combines pretty nearly the best in everything, acting, photography, directing, cast. It is a whale of a picture.

Moving Picture World:
One of the most marvelously amazing attractions ever offered owners of motion picture theaters.

THE SUPREME THRILL OF MOTION PICTURE HISTORY

A FRAIL boat and its six occupants towed at express-train speed toward three thousand miles of open water, through a sea lashed into foam by a maddened whale.

A sudden turn; a shout, "Look out, he's heading for us!" The cars are splintered along one side of the whaleboat; before the startled crew can back-water, the monster of the deep is upon them!

A flip of its death-dealing "flukes", and both craft and its occupants are tossed high in the air. The boat falls back into the sea a battered wreck, its crew floundering about in shark-infested waters.

Such is the climax of the most astounding piece of realism ever photographed—a motion picture made in the broad reaches of mid-Atlantic, with a 90-ton sperm whale as the principal actor, and the hand of chance directing as fierce a battle between man and mammal as the long history of whaling has ever known.

SEE IT AND YOU WILL AGREE THAT IT IS THE MOST ASTOUNDING SENSATION OF THE CENTURY!

EXCELLENT SINGING FEATURE OF NORMAL OPERA AT THEATER

Presentation of Martha Scores
Big Hit With Responsive Audience

H. MARGARET JOSTEN
Excellent singing was the outstanding characteristic of the production of the opera, Martha, put on at the theater Thursday night. The Glue Clubs of the Normal School under the direction of Mr. Joseph Leeder did some of the best singing ever heard in an amateur opera production in La Crosse. The large audience was very responsive and cordially expressed its appreciation of the work of both director and performers.

Mr. Leeder had a superior group of voices on which to build. Miss Miller was at her best, which is very good indeed. Her soprano which is powerful or even brilliant has a sweet rippling quality for which one found oneself listening for as it floated clear above the heavier depths of the other voices. Her singing of "The Last Rose of Summer" was exquisite.

Other Good Voices
The rich responsiveness of Miss Miller's voice as she sang the part of Nancy was beautiful. When appearing in the third act, she sang of the lover whom she had deserted and won a most insistent encore. Mr. Russell as David had an exciting part which he sang with the best of his voice. Mr. Martin as Phineas, Mr. H. Johnson as the Sheriff of Richmond and Mr. Prilavich as Sir Tristan each gained some real distinction by his singing.

But the most striking phase of the work of the principals was the lovely series of little duets, trios and quartets which comprised so large a part of the whole opera. These were beautifully sung, one might well imagine each in turn and single it out for particular comment on artistic and often appealingly were they given. There were that amusing number given in the opening scene by Louis Harrier, Nancy and Sir Tristan the singing song with Phineas attempting to teach the girls to spin and toward the close of the third act the charming duet which was sung by a few of the most attractive.

Chorus Is Good
The chorus was a delight too, well trained to careful enunciation, to clean phrasing. There was nothing staid about this chorus, a complaint that it is easy to make of most large groups of amateur singers. The effects were light, full of vitality, brilliant, the singing always full of spontaneity. There was not a note in the whole performance where one could release the chorus work unfavorably, one was constantly conscious of its amazing excellence.

was distinctly a credit to the director who developed it. Indeed one cannot congratulate Mr. Leeder too cordially upon his success in the students of the Normal School too sincerely upon their good fortune at having such an experienced under such a director.

Orchestra in Form
The Normal orchestra did some very creditable work in accompanying the staging and costuming were well planned and appropriate. The action probably moved as smoothly as it is possible to have it with amateur actors who are first concern is the vocal side of the production. On the whole it was a very successful performance. Mr. Leeder was assisted in the production by Miss Leona Thompson, Mr. D. O. Conte and Mr. Robert Nohr, Jr.

FREED FROM FAMINE RUSSIA'S BINS NOW BULGE WITH GRAIN

Too Much Bread Promises to be Nation's Dilemma for Year 1923

MOSCOW.—Too much bread promises to be Russia's dilemma in 1923. From 1917 until 1922 bread was the most precious thing in Russia. A farmer could trade into Moscow with a small sack of grain and trade it for a grand piano or anything which the hungry city dwellers had to offer. Now the same peasant could walk from one end of Russia to the other and excepting in a few isolated famine districts, could not get a jack-knife for the same sack of grain.

If the harvest of this year turns out as expected, Russia will have a surplus of grain which could be sold abroad.

From a country which less than 18 months ago was clamoring for crusts, Russia has changed into a nation which promises within a few months to be swamped with wheat and rye.

At Saratoff, near certain communities that have been listed as famine-stricken, rye flour, the staple of bread, is quoted at less than 25 cents a peck, which is 36 pounds. At Samar, the district where even cannibalism occurred among the starving a year ago, rye goes begging at less than 40 cents a bushel.

In Moscow, naturally, transportation costs have made prices somewhat higher, almost double the reigning price in the great producing regions. Siberia, once the granary from which wheat poured into Western Europe, did not fare so well in last year's harvest and there prices are higher, but in Odessa and at Kieff, in the southern wheat belt, recent official quotations show wheat costing under 70 cents a bushel.

The Soviet government, through the collection of taxes, has rolled up a grain reserve amounting to nearly 200,000,000 bushels. Some of this is needed to feed the army but as for the bulk of the grain unless it can be exported, the government does not know what to do with it.

Another box chess prodigy has been discovered. Aristide Gromer, thirteen, recently defeated twenty chess experts in simultaneous play in Paris.

BULBS PLANTED IN FALL TO BLOOM IN SPRING

BY W. R. BEATTIE
Extension Horticulturist, U. S. Department of Agriculture

A lot of hydrangeas, tulips or other bulbs planted during the early fall will come into bloom during the early spring and make a striking showing.

There is such a variety of type and color in each of the groups of bulbs that the home gardener may be somewhat confused in making a selection.

The first step is to begin with common varieties of the color and shape of the flower. A rule of thumb is to plant one bulb for every square foot of ground.

The second step is to begin with common varieties of the color and shape of the flower. A rule of thumb is to plant one bulb for every square foot of ground.

planting must be deferred until frost has killed, or partly killed, the summer plants.

Early Fall Planting

This will bring the planting of the bulbs a little after the first killing frost. The plan should be, however, to plant the bulbs just as soon as possible after the removal of the summer blooming plants.

In fitting the beds for the bulbs the ground should be carefully turned over and any roots of the summer plants removed. After seeding, the beds should be raked smooth and marked off in squares, about eight by eight inches for hyacinths, the same distances for tulips and six by six or six by eight inches for narcissus. Hyacinth and tulip bulbs should be planted about four inches deep while narcissus bulbs do best when covered as much as six inches. A mulch consisting of about two inches of fine manure or of the sweepings from the poultry house may be put on later for winter protection.

For mass planting there is perhaps nothing more pleasing than old-fashioned jonquils, as they are hardy and extremely effective. The narcissus, among the oldest of cultivated plants, and are deserving of more attention than has been given them.

Iris and Gladiolus
Iris, especially the Japanese sorts, have attracted a great amount of attention recently and are among the most showy of our hardy plants. The iris, or blue flag of our grandmothers' gardens, is adapted to border planting. A bed of iris is especially effective when used as a dividing line between the lawn and the garden proper.

From the standpoint of profit and satisfaction there is perhaps no bulbous flowering plant that will equal the gladiolus. Gladioli require a deep, rich, well drained soil; are cultivated like any regular garden crop. There are a large number of varieties and the showy spikes of flowers are greatly in demand for house decorations.

The flowers of the gladiolus keep well and the individual flowers continue to open after the spikes are cut. Late in the season the gladiolus bulbs are dug, dried and stored very much the same as onions.

JEFFERSON SKELETON MYSTERY UNSOLVED

JEFFERSON, Wis.—The mystery of a skeleton found in a gravel pit near here will go unsolved. Jefferson county authorities told the district attorney that death might have occurred any time between two and ten years ago and on Wednesday he ordered it buried as soon as possible.

Nothing more pressing than the old-fashioned jonquils, as they are hardy and extremely effective. The narcissus, among the oldest of cultivated plants, and are deserving of more attention than has been given them.

stitute to Determine Fineness of Cement

CHICAGO, Ill.—It required more than 6,000,000 fine dust particles to cover a glass plate one inch square, according to investigators at the Structural Research Laboratory of the Lewis Institute here.

Although it would seem a hopeless task to count these millions of dust particles and measure their exact size, these Lewis Institute investigators have carried out a series of tests in which these operations were performed.

The tests were conducted to determine the fineness of portland cement, and it was discovered that if average sized cement particles were laid in closely fitting rows it would require 6,000,000 to cover the same area.

In making the tests, samples of cement were blown up a series of brass tubes by compressed air. This operation separated the tiny particles and the sizes were then obtained by microscopic measurement. The cement particles had already passed through the standard testing sieve specified by government requirements. Such a sieve contains 10,000 holes, so the average inch and is woven of bronze wire, finer than a human hair. The sieve is finer than silk and will hold water. Government standards require that 75 per cent of a given quantity of cement be fine enough to pass through this sieve.

Nothing more pressing than the old-fashioned jonquils, as they are hardy and extremely effective. The narcissus, among the oldest of cultivated plants, and are deserving of more attention than has been given them.

Iris and Gladiolus
Iris, especially the Japanese sorts, have attracted a great amount of attention recently and are among the most showy of our hardy plants. The iris, or blue flag of our grandmothers' gardens, is adapted to border planting. A bed of iris is especially effective when used as a dividing line between the lawn and the garden proper.

From the standpoint of profit and satisfaction there is perhaps no bulbous flowering plant that will equal the gladiolus. Gladioli require a deep, rich, well drained soil; are cultivated like any regular garden crop. There are a large number of varieties and the showy spikes of flowers are greatly in demand for house decorations.

The flowers of the gladiolus keep well and the individual flowers continue to open after the spikes are cut. Late in the season the gladiolus bulbs are dug, dried and stored very much the same as onions.

DEATH WATCH IN ZOO ENDS AFTER FOUR-DAY PERIOD

Mother Lion in Toledo Stands Guard Over Dead Bodies of Babies

TOLEDO, O. — A jungle death watch, overwhelming in its tenderness, yet awe-inspiring in its savage intensity, has terminated after four days in the lion house of the Walbridge park zoo here.

The watchers were Sahara, the beautiful lioness lent to Toledo by the Cleveland zoo, and King, the jungle giant, pride of the Toledo collection. Between Sahara's two powerful forepaws, crouched tenderly at intervals and guarded by two half-lion eyes, dimmed by grief, were two chubby, fuzzy cubs—both lifeless.

Sahara would not believe they were dead—nor knowing it, could not calm the overwhelming urge of mother love that had aroused all the tenderness and yet all of the savagery of her jungle nature. Only an occasional whim escaped the lioness to indicate her grief.

For four days the death watch was maintained—after the great stork of the lion world flew over the animal house and left the lifeless bodies of a lion son and daughter.

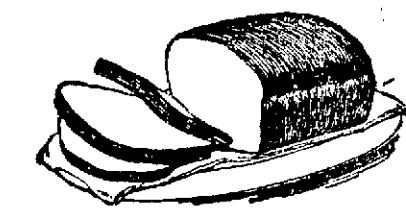

Crouched, ready to spring at the first sign of danger, Sahara hardly moved a muscle during her long vigil. Now and then she smoothed the fur on their little bodies with her tongue, and again she caressed tenderly the stiff faces. Only twice did she leave them—when keeper Louis Scherer, anxious to put an end to the heart-rending watch, entered the lion house to see if there was an opportunity to remove the two bodies.

On both occasions Sahara, in a terrible rage, sprang fiercely against the great iron bars of her cage in an effort to drive off the intruder.

King, in a frenzy such as Scherer never had seen him display since he took him as a cub to rear, tried to get at his keeper, frothing at the mouth and sending forth the terrifying roar of the enraged jungle master.

"It was the old call to protect the young," Scherer said. "There was no use in trying to take the lifeless cubs away from Sahara."

So the big lion house was locked to all but the keepers. Sahara was permitted to keep her death watch undisturbed until that mysterious healer of animal heartaches, stole quietly into this mother's grief-stricken consciousness with that instinctive knowledge of the helplessness of the struggle, when she permitted the bodies to be removed by the keeper.

GENTLEWOMEN IN GERMANY SELLING THEIR OLD FINERY

Thousands Going Through Same Tragedy as Russian Women Have Suffered

BERLIN. — Thousands of German gentlewomen are now going through the tragedy which Russian women of the same class have suffered for several years. Widows of officers and government officials, women with small pensions and limited incomes from investments, find themselves unable to buy the palatial food with their depreciated marks.

A few days ago the aged widow of a once prominent physician and her invalid daughter were found almost dead from hunger in their home, which had been stripped of every saleable article. The mother had done needlework as long as she was able. She was too proud to ask charity, and the doctors who were called by neighbors to attend her said both the mother and daughter, if left alone would have been dead in another 24 hours.

Action of such persons and protect them from unscrupulous second-hand dealers, a number of philanthropic Berlin women have organized a fair where secondhand articles may be offered for sale. The owners may act as their own salesagents or entrust their wares to representatives of the committee.

With German efficiency the members of the relief committee have provided tables behind which the sellers bare chairs. They are mostly elderly women. Many of them are crippled, and others without exception their worn and old-fashioned clothing indicates their gentle birth. A few very old men sit among the women and scarcely any of the vendors are young enough to do any manual labor. Thus they sit, day after day, waiting the chance to exchange the finery of by-gone days into fuel and food for today.
